

GRADUATE ARCHITECT

Compensation: Competitive compensation, health/life insurance, Personal time off/holidays, 401k program.

MartinRiley is currently hiring highly motivated and creative graduate architects to join our architectural studio. The successful applicant will gain exposure to a variety of projects including educational, commercial, housing, institutional and adaptive reuse and historic preservation. Applicants must have a Bachelor or Master degree from an accredited university for architecture.

Desired applicants will demonstrate a desire to advance within MartinRiley as a project manager and project architect. Furthermore, prospective candidates must demonstrate a willingness to grow in all phases of a project and to show motivation for movement towards licensure.

Highly desired skills include experience with Indesign, Revit, Photoshop and 3D Studio. Construction experience is also a plus.

Other skills important to the success of a candidate include, but are not limited to the following:

- Client relations
- Project due diligence
- Code and ADA review
- Field measuring and data collection
- Preliminary and conceptual design
- Coordination of other disciplines
- Construction document production
- Shop drawing and submittals review
- Construction observation

Requirements of the candidate include:

- Punctuality
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills
- Dedication to meeting a project deadline
- Team player

Candidates should submit their resumes as one document in pdf form to Ron Ross (ross@martin-riley.com).